DALLAS, SATURDAY NOV. 8.
FACTS AND FANCIES.

"There!" said Jones, as he wrathfully pushed away the pie which his landlady had just served him, "that stuff isn't fit for a pig to eat, and I ain't going to eat it!"

An Iowa editor wrote: "During past week we have been visiting the Solons of the country," and his constant subscribers think that is a funny way to spell "saloons."

At a hotel table one boarder remarked to his neighbor, "This must be a healthy place for chickens." "Why?" asked the other. "Because I never see any dead ones hereabouts."

A country editor writing to a delinquent subscriber requesting him to pay up his back dues, concluded, with, "If you pay up you will oblige me; if you won't I'll oblige you."

Catching a little Tartar—"So you don't care about donkey-riding, Miss. And why?" "Oh, I've got a pony, and one doesn't care about donkeys after that, you know?" "Has a pony got more legs than a donkey, then?" "Missy (who don't like to be chaffed)—" "Yes; exactly twice as many as some donkeys that I know of."

A man is so much more polite in church. He is on dress-parade, as it were. Nobody was surprised to see that young man last Sunday dive suddenly into the bottom of the pew to pick up her parasol. While he was at the bottom he saw the embroidered edge of her pocket-handkerchief stick from under the edge of her dress. He commenced tugging at it, when there was a fierce scuffle and a little hand darted down. He came up without it. There were two red faces in the sanctuary, to which the calm of the blessed Sabbath seemed to bring no relief. But he was a young man that meant well.—Stanton Vindicator.

"Mother sent me," said a little girl to a neighbor, "to ask you to come and take tea with her this evening." "Did she say at what time, my dear?" "No, ma'am; she only said she would ask you, and then the thing would be off her mind—that was all she said."

"Mamma, don't forget to ask papa about going to Brighton for a fortnight!" "Hush, dear! I'm afraid it won't do! You know how dreadfully the seaside upsets papa for the first week always!" "Yes, but papa needn't come down till the second week, you know?"

An Indiana man claims to have succeeded in playing a thorough confidence game upon the potato-bug. He planted a grain of corn in each potato hill, and as the corn came up first, the bugs thought it was a corn field, and started for other scenes.

John Varnum Jr., is a practical joker. A few Sundays ago, in returning from church, he was conversing with his wife on the subject of the sermon, and remarked that he couldn't believe saint and sinner ever dwelt so near as the sermon represented. His wife intimated that they could, and instance d. the following case: "Haven't you and I dwelt in the same house for years?" This was a square hit on John, but he wormed out of it, and closed the case with the following argument, "Yes, to be sure; but did I ever call you a sinner?" Judgment for John and no appeal.

A chap who in some mysterious manner had received a bid to a large and fashionable party was somewhat disconcerted to find that he was not acquainted with a single person present, nor a double one either. Finally he perceived an elderly gentleman of a disconsolate mien looking over a photographic album. Our hero made for this party of the second part and said: "I say, you and I don't seem to know anybody here. Let's go home!" It was the head of the house.

A woman in Litchfield, Ill., set all her neighbors laughing last Fall by sewing up her peach trees in bed ticking. The fun isn't over yet, for now she has an orchard full of peaches, while the neighbors have not a single one.
